

De-escalation Strategies to Support My Child Parental training course

We understand the amazing work you are already doing at home and the challenges that parenting throws up. There is no manual for parenting, we learn from experience and the opportunity to share with others.

This empowerment workshop looks at some of the reasons behind why our children behave in certain ways and helps develop skills & strategies in relation to dealing with conflict at home.

Also, giving you an opportunity to share hints and tips with other parents on things that can be done to address things in a positive way.

With a key focus on factors such as stress, adverse experiences and resilience we look at how these things can impact our children's wellbeing and how we as parents can influence change.
