#EVERYDAYCOUNTS

Now that we are back into a more normal routine in school, I thought it would be a good time to start thinking about returning to our normal expectations for lunchboxes.

The image above is the Public Health England's Eatwell Plate. It shows the proportion of food groups needed for a healthy diet and healthy meal. Schools have a duty to promote, encourage and support children to make healthy lifestyle choices.

We will be using the Eatwell Plate to help children in school understand what a healthy diet is. It would be helpful if you could talk about the Eatwell Plate at home as well.

You may notice that the sweet treats are not part of the Eatwell Plate. They are not recommended for every meal so we would ask that these items are saved for your meals at home. Our policy is to ask children to save any sweets or confectionery items like chocolate bars for home-time.

Fruit yoghurt with low sugar is a healthy dairy option. Chocolate or caramel yoghurts with lots of sugar are not and would count as a treat item not a dairy item.
